"From Darkness to Light explores from a variety of angles the subject of museum lighting in exhibition spaces in America, Japan, and Western Europe throughout the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Written by an array of international experts, these collected essays gather perspectives from a diverse range of cultural sensibilities. From sensitive discussions of Tintoretto's unique approach to the play of light and darkness as exhibited in the Scuola Grande di San Rocco in Venice, to the development of museum lighting as part of Japanese artistic self-fashioning, via the story of an epic American painting on tour, museum illumination in the work of Henry James, and lighting alterations at Chatsworth (to name only a few topics) this book is a treasure trove of illuminating contributions. The collection is at once a refreshing insight for the enthusiastic museum-goer, who is brought to an awareness of the exhibit in its immediate environment, and a wide-ranging scholarly compendium for the professional who seeks to proceed in their academic or curatorial work with a more enlightened sense of the lighted space."--Publisher's website. Until the mid-twentieth century the Western imagination seemed intent on viewing Rome purely in terms of its classical past or as a stop on the Grand Tour. This collection of essays looks at Rome from a postmodern perspective, including analysis of the city's 'unmappability', its fragmented narratives and its iconic status in literature and film.

Think 'Venice', and images of gondolas drifting along misty canals and pigeon-feeding visitors dwarfed by the splendor of St. Mark's and its square come unavoidably to mind. If it's Venetian icons of the sort you're looking for, this magical city will never disappoint. But for a more rounded experience, the longtime residents and experts who have contributed to the sixth edition of the Time Out Venice guide will lead you down back streets and into campi and calli where few tourists tread: to hidden churches with hidden artworks; to architectural and sculptural gems in concealed courtyards; and to districts where the everyday life of Venice goes on in time-honored, washing-festooned, market-haggling fashion. And the guide will take you beyond, out across the lagoon to verdant islands and swimming beaches, as well as to the magnificent cities — Padua, Verona, Vicenza, Treviso — and countryside of the mainland Veneto region. Highlights: • Venture beyond the well-worn trail from St Mark's to the Rialto and perfect the art of getting blissfully lost in the Venetian labyrinth • Explore art-packed churches and breathtaking museums • Escape the menu turistico and discover Venice's authentic eateries

As a flight engineer in the Italian Royal Airforce, Vittorio Dall'Anese (1911–1992) participated in the Spanish Civil War, the North African campaign and other key events that marked the 20th century. The vocational history he committed to tape, here presented for the first time, recounts the risk and secrecy, as well as the sense of duty and camaraderie, that characterise warfare. All these themes were a source of inspiration for Annamaria, whose impressionistic texts punctuate her grandfather's tale. Her imaginative and atmospheric prose, together with previously unpublished photographs and documents from the family archives, offers an inventive juxtaposition to Vittorio's rich and at times gripping historical account.

The past few years have witnessed a growing academic interest in Italian Studies and an increasing number of symposia and scholarly activities. This volume originates from the Society for Italian Studies Postgraduate Colloquia that took place at the University of Leicester and Cambridge in June 2004 and April 2005 respectively. It gathers together articles by young researchers working on various aspects of Italian Studies. It well illustrates current trends in both typical areas of research, like literature and 'high culture', and in those which have gained momentum in recent years, like translation and language studies. The volume offers a taste of the dynamic outlook of current research in Italian Studies: the interdisciplinary approach of the essays in translation and gender studies, and the innovative methodological perspectives and findings offered by the new fields of Italian L2 and ethnography. The book is divided into three sections, each grouping contributions by broad subject areas: literature and culture, translation and gender studies, language and linguistics. Cross-fertilizations and interdisciplinary research emerge from several essays and the coherent ensemble constitutes an example of the far-reaching results achieved by current research.

Secondo volume di scritti scelti tra quanto prodotto nell'arco di un venticinquennio da Limbranauta, mitica creatura veneziana con 6 teste, e anche di più. Tra gli svariati temi di riflessione nessuno è per Limbranauta tanto insignificante da non poter diventare oggetto di speculazione sotto la lente dell'ironia e del nonsense che diventano strumento di analisi semiseria del reale, lasciando talvolta una fugace visione di bellezza, l'illuminazione di un attimo, fuori dal buio totale dei nostri giorni. Tutto è potenzialmente poesia per Limbranauta, un'equazione che letta a rovescio è ancora vera: la poesia è tutto, tutto quello che possiamo permetterci. Che dovremmo permetterci. A parte ridere, ovvio.
